

ABSTRACT

A timepiece includes a casing section enclosing a display device and an attachment section hingedly attached to the casing section. The timepiece is operable to be placed in a first configuration to attach a timepiece to an object of interest and in a second configuration for use as a tabletop clock.